FOR STATE TREASURED JAMES H. GARRARD.

Jefferson County to Meet on Satarday, July 1st, in the East

By the proceedings of the County Convention at Jeffersontown, to nominate a candidate for the Legislature, published on Sunday, the 18th, it will be seen that that body adjourned to meet in this city on the 1st of July. This was done because the convention, though sufficiently numerous, did not have but six precincts represented out of sixteen. The convention urged upon the several precincts to appoint delegates to the adjourned meeting. Will the citizens see that rd series affects only the matter of interest. The it is done? The Journal has a war on hand, and one of a novel kind. We appreciate the remark of a gallant officer, the other day, who, in speaking of drawing up his first line of battle, said it was the crookedest thing he ever saw in his life. The Journal has a war on hand, and the crook. tion. edness of the line shows to what straights it has been reduced; but the Journal is a splendid partisan, a gallant officer and a glorious wit. Its humor has rather been shown by what it doesn't do than what it does, although thirty or forty years have won a deservedly fine position. In the barn-yard, sometimes, there are great heaps, and valuable, but not such for very elegant heaps, gathered from the stables. One little chicken after another climbs on the top of a hill, claps his wings, crows and retires. This is the way of our neighbor. We hear of a new or queer note for a time, but we have ceased to do anything but look with amazed wonder at the smallness of the chicken and the largeness of the pile. We intended, though, to point out to the Journal and Julius Cesar Hannibal in what way the colored men and women are shamefully treated and betrayed by the radicals, but warned by the idea of a conspiracy, we refrain. We consider our-selves pretty courageous, but we are too hundred feet, a considerable quantity of modest to make an assault on a hundred regiments. If we were to tell the colored men and their wives and children what a swindle and cheat was going to be imposed on them, they might rise, and it would take Sherman's veterans to restore order. swindle and cheat was going to be im-

but we decline to run against "Billy," and we take considerable credit to ourselves, when, as the Journal insists, the Democrat is getting up a little Southern Confederacy of its own, for declining to allow our servants to engage in it. No one, however, deserves any credit for doall the strings of this conspiracy were not in the hands of the Journal, we would not be so cool and racy in talking about it; and we timidly confess that if the Journal don't know the ropes, nor how easily the classic fable of Loopus et Lepus may be twisted from a joke into suspending a newspaper, we would turn State's evidence and prove that the Journal was once respectable.

He alluded to the cruelty that was practiced by the master upon the "poor slave" in days gone by with the "terrible" lash, and those instruments of torture, the thumb-screw and stocks. He thanked God that there would be an end to it now, and wanted to know of his atten-tive audience if they also were not thankful (no applause.) He neither acknowledged nor denied that he was in favor of negro suffrage, but we may safely vor of negro suffrage, but we may safely judge, from the sentiment of his remarks concerning our "colored brethren," that he would not oppose, if elected to Congress, an amendment to the Constitution making the right to vote a privilege to be enjoyed by every one, regardless of color, excepting a white man who may have been a rebel soldier. The Constitutional amendment, now under consideration, did not, in his judgment, conflict with the rights rebel soldier. LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 24, 1865. GEOGRAPHICAL POSITION. These lands are located on the north bank of Green river, four miles east of the town of Greensburg, the county-seat of Green county.

GEOLOGICAL POSITION. The geological position of the territory embraced in the present survey, is that known as the subcarboniferous forma-tion. The subcarboniferous formation, tions which alone yield petroleum, in any considerable quantities. All of the most highly esteemed petroleum territory of Ohio, Indiana, Virginia and Pennsylvania, is located in one or the other, or both, of these formations. Small quantities of but in no instance has oil been found in such formations in sufficient amount to make it an object of commercial import-ance in the United States. When found in geological positions above the subcar-boniferous formation, the oil has worked its way up through fissures, or by capil-lary attraction, through such superim-posed formation, which is generally of no considerable thickness. The dition of organic existences was not such as to favor the development of petroleum in the silurian system, which is ust below the devonian formation.

INDICATIONS OF PETROLEUM. The following are the evidences of oil which were discovered on these lands: 1. Oil, as such, was found in the water of an old salt well which was sunk more petroleum was taken from it, but at that period oil had no market value and, consequently, attracted but little attention This well, which was bored to a depth of

This gas burns with a reddish yellow flame, by which it can be distinguished from the gas that escapes from coal, or decay-ing vegetable matter; the latter burns with a pale light, and has a low illumias to prevent the growth of plants. hight of fifteen feet. When this well was bored to the depth at which gas commenced to escape, that substance was ac-cidentally ignited, when the flames rose to a hight equal to that of the tallest trees, and evolved light sufficient to enable a and evolved right sandard to charter at a distance of a half mile. This gas is charged with the vapor of the volatile liquids associated with petroleum. The as and vapor which accompanies it will apor and gas have been discharged from he well, without intermission, for a period of forty years, and, as it is always associated with petroleum, the latter must be stored in the strata below in quanti-

ies commensurate with the immense odor of petroleum, and, when the tempera-ture is carried still higher, the oil itself liquid, which differs in no resp ser oils obtained from petroleum by the same process.

5. Salt was detected in the water of the well so often alluded to. Although there is no connection between oil and salt-wa-petroleum, and, by many, it is looked up-on as an important indication of the presence of oil. 6. Sulphur-water, when the flow is uni-The sulphuretted hydrogen, which gives the characteristic odor to sulphur-springs, is produced by the decomposition of sulphates, as the sulphate of lime, for instance, by the hydro-carbons of petrole-7. Horizontal stratification is a matter of no little importance. In these lands there is no perceptible dip in any direction, and in the surrounding country the dip, in no case, exceeds three or four de-one? The cavernous limestone is entirely above the reservoirs of petroleum, and in some of the most celebrated oil-regions some of the most celebrated oil-regions that formation is entirely wanting. Another idea, not less absurd, is that oil is contained in fissures and crevices which were formed by the upheaval and disruption of rock by igneous agencies, operating from below upwards. All the fissures thus formed, in this whole continent, would not hold the volume of oil discharged from a flowing Pannaylyanta.

discharged from a flowing Pennsylvania well in a single day. It is, therefore, all important that the stratification in an oil region remain in a horizontal position, and suffer no upheaval, depression, or disruption, by which the oil might escape through fissures or crevices. The follow-ing may, therefore, be regarded as the leading facts in reference to the formation composition and transformation of organic matter (mainly vegetable, of the paleozoic age), under the influence of moisture, pressure, and an elevated temperature. of the mineral matter which was deposited above and beneath the organic matter that was ultimately converted into petroleum, by the agencies just men-tioned. The caverns which are left by the removal of coal will give us a correct conception of the reservoirs from which petroleum is obtained. The vast quantities of petroleum which are discharged from the natural wells in the Birman Empire could not be supplied from a source of less magnitude plied from a source of less magnitude than that of the caverns which inclose some of the vast deposits of coal in our coal; basins. A single group of these springs yields four hundred thousand (400,000) hogsheads of petroleum annually; and this enormous flow has continued without diminution for many centuries.

3. Petroleum is not formed by the action of heat upon coal. Oil from coal is an acrid poison; petroleum is a bland liquid.

Petroleum can be refined at a triffing expenditure of time and money. Oil produced by the distillation of coal is refined with great difficulty, and at a cost which renders its manufacture unprofitable, even when the price of petroleum is higher

4. Petroleum is not necessarily asso ciated with coal; some of the most valuable oil territory being located in forma-5. In the Valley of the Mississippi pe-troleum, in quantity, is restricted to the subcarboniferous and devonian formamations, which are below the true coa measures. Oil is sometimes obtained by borings, which are commenced in the car-boniferous formation, but, in all cases thus far investigated, the borings extend ways to be expected in the devonian and 6. INTERESTING EXERCISES-LIST OF GRAD LETTER NUMBER TWO To the Editors of the Louisville Democrat. SIRS: By catarrh, commonly called a cold in the head, I mean an inflammatory affection of the mucus membrane that lines the nose. This penibrane extends downward, lining also the throat, larynx, windpipe and bronchial tubes. We breathe through the nose; hence the part of the mucus membrane which lines the nasal passages first receives injury from sudden changes of temperature in the air, or from any irritating matter it may contain. The public schools of our city have been in operation for a long time, and since they were first established they have been onducted on the very best plan, no branch of education being omitted. At first the highest point to reach was the first the highest point to reach was the grammar department, but those interested in education determined that our public school system should be as complete as any in the country, and consequently some eight years ago a male and female high school was created, where every branch taught in the best colleges in the country would be taught to those who were unable to pay for a collegiate education. When the schools were first established the best professors were engaged, and such schoolars of the public schools as were able to pass the examination were admitted to the high schools. Since these schools were first established a large number of persons, both male and female, have graduated with the highest honors, and some of them now stand at the head of the professions which they have chosen. The great advantage to be gained by this plan of education is that all who are willing to study can advance with rich or poor, high or low, and no matter what position pecuniary circumstances have placed them in life, they are, the progress of the scholars of our public schools with pleasure and pride.

was conceived, and each year since these exhibitions have been conducted with great success. The object of these exhitions is to show to the public, who have not the chance of attending the schools, a chance to see how much progress has been made by the different pupils. These exhibitions are generally given at the end of the scholastic year, at which time the graduates are presented with their diplomas. This year the exhibition was held (last night) at the Masonic Temple, when the large hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. The exhibition consisted of reading of compositions by the young ladies of the graduating class, music, &c. It was opened with prayer by Rev. So generally successful has it been, that we doubt if it will fail in one case out of a hundred when properly and faithfully employed. Unfortunately, catarrh is too generally treated with equal neglect by both physicians and patients, until it becomes lost sight of in the disastrous consequences to which it gives rise. I know that it exists in a greater or less degree in all forms of pulmonary disease; that it usually exists before any symptoms of the disease in the lungs have been manifested, and that it is the direct consequence of those colds in the head which become practically known to most of ustwo or three times every year. I regard catarrh as the great feeder of pulmonary irritation, and do not believe I can by any means so effectually guard the lungs from disease as by cut, ing off the catarrh affection.

NEW YORK, June 29. The gold market is controlled by specuative movements. The policy of the bears in covering their short contracts by bor-rowed gold had the effect of depressing prices. Quotations this morning touched 138, but the policy is a costly one, the loans being contracted at ¼ per cent. per day. The bears, however, hope in this way to bridge over until next week, when the payment of the gold interest at the subreasury department is expected to ease the market.

Continued Illness of the President

NEW YORK, June 29. The stock market shows a continuance of yesterday's dullness but without any material change in prices. Speculative interests are quiet and will continue so dian chute. amil after the 4th of July. In railroad stocks there was a powerful movement. Erie was firm under the demand for export. The transactions in Government stocks at the board were quite light, though on the street a few sales were made to agents to foreign buyers. Transactions in State stocks, railroad bonds and bank stocks are quite nominal. Yesterday about $650,000 of 5-20's were sent out on the European steamers. Orders are on hand which, if executed, will produce a large shipment on Saturday. For the last two weeks the certificates of Erie Expedition through Ga. and Miss.

NEW YORK, June 29. The Herald's Washington special says the expedition recently sent to the Wilder-ness to reinter and remark the graves of those killed in battle there last year, have those killed in battle there last year, have accomplished the work, and yesterday returned to the city. The whole affair was under the charge of Capt. J. Moore, Acting Quartermaster. The First regiment of General Hancock's, of the First corps, under command of Colonel Bird, were employed in this duty, which they performed with much credit to themselves. Operations were commenced on the 17th inst., and were continued without interruption until last Saturday, when their sad duty was completed.

They commenced operations on the extreme right, and marked around to the left. All bodies which had not been properly buried were reburied, and in all cases where the graves could be identified, neat

Gov. Holden, of North Carolina, has already appointed and commissioned Jus-tices of the Peace in over thirty counties of that State, and the work is still going on. One of the duties of these Justices will be to administer the oath of allegiance to persons desirous of voting at elections or members of the State Convention.

NEW YORK, June 29. A copy of a report of the rebel Congressional Committee, to investigate the charges of brutality to Union prisoners, has been found and is published. Though the report bears evidence of having been arefully prepared, so as to excuse and leny the facts, still, horrors enough are revealed to prove the systematic cruelty charged upon the rebel authorities.
